THE BULLETIN OF THE OXFORD SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

OXFORD, NEW JERSEY

Rev. Andrew Gilbert Yount, Ph.D. Pastor

Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest for your souls.

For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.

Matthew 11:28-36

Bulletin No.214 June 10th, 1934

The Morning hour of worship is given overtothe Sunday School for the Annual Children's Day Exercises, for which their will a special program made.

Prayer By John Milton

"The times and the seasons pass along under Thy feet, to come and to go at thy bidding, and as thou didst dignify our father's days with many revelations, above all their foregoing ages since thou tookest the flesh, so thou canst vouchsafto us, though unworthy, as large a portion of thy spirit as thou pleasest, for who shall prejudice thy all-governing will, seeing the power of thy grace is not passed away with the primitive times, as fond and faithless men imagine, but thy kingdom is now at hand and thou standing Come forth out of thy at the door. chamber, O Prince of all the kings of the earth. Put on the robes of thy imperial majesty. Take up that unlimited scepter which thy almighty Father hath bequeathed thee, for now the voice of thy bride calls thee and all creatures sigh to be renewed."

The children of the Sunday Scool have the right of way in our Church this Sabbath day. They at least are happy, if others are not, and they by this fact are the best fitted to offer praise acceptable to Heaven, as Our Master has taught. Like birds they sing, because God made them so.

"I Heard the Children Singing And ever as they sang, Methought the voice of angels From Heaven in answer rang."

But we today should not forget little Lawrence Meyers, nine years old and one of our Sunday School boys, who has been quite sick in the hospital for many days, but is now much better and hopes to get home soon. We shall all pray God that it may be so—that he may get well and strong again.

Last Tednesday we found him bright and cheerful, though weak, and he talked of the good times he would have with his playmates when he got home. The Bulletin is able to report that an important step has been taken recently toward the preservation of the old furnace. Mr. Leonard Peckitt, president of the Warren Foundry and Pipe Corp., which owns the the property, has given practical proof of his interest in the movement, as indicated by this extract from a letter to Mr. Humphrey:—
"At a meeting of the Warren Board here today, I explained the situation fully and the matter of deeding the furnace Site and the buildings on it to some Society, that would make the necessary repairs, and it was left to me with power.

"Will you, therefore, be kind enough to give the matter further consideration and let me know whether in your opinion, it would be wise to deed the property in perpetuity to a committee of local citizens of the village, or perhaps better, to make the transfer to some Engineering or other Society that would be more likely to carry Any way, with the matter now in my hands. I am ready to act and after looking over the ground, suggest that if a deed is finally to be made, it cover say, approximately 40 feet fronting the roadway with a depth of not over 300 feet. "As you know, the Oxford property we own, is leased to the Allan Wood Steel Company and it will, of course, be necessary to get their approval before disposing of the small piece of ground in question, which, however, I think will not be difficult."

Mr. Humphrey, who forwarded the above letter writes to this effect:
"The matter of organization is a very one and of course your views are of prime importance. My present idea is to have a preliminary talk with Mr. Peckitt and then arrange for you to come to N.Y. and the three of of us to go over the subject. At present I rather lean toward an independent Society, composed of some Oxford people and a number of iron and steel men(like Dr. Stoughton) whom I think we can interest. Perhaps the most troublesome part will be raising the money though I think that can be accomplished.

"I looked at the old furnace when at the made a dingling noise that could be heard reunion, and fear the repairs will cost more in all parts of the town. But it was not than I had at first estimated."

hard on the nerves, as it was like music.

Mr. Loux, supt. of the Alan Wood Co. as sures the writer that he thinks the company will willingly cooperate with us in this movement to preserve the furnæe.

History of the Old Mines By Patrick Kempsey

A short time ago we wrote about the history of the Welsh Mine. We might tell something about the ghosts which, as many people claimed, made it their home.

But I had passed it thousands of times in daylight and the dark, yet I never saw anything resembling a ghost.

However we will not touch on the matter now as we have no town lights, and it might be a great strain on some of the nervous people who prowl around in the dark. But if we ever again get street lights we may revive some of the ghost stories, since with plenty of light we may have courage, in case we should meet some of them, to have a chat with them.

Now we will move 150 feet from the Welsh Mine to where we find a shaft 90 feet in depth, with Mr. Michael Hilbert as hoisting engineer and Thomas Cannon as underground foreman. This shaft belongs to the Baltas Milberger group. superintendent of three of these which are now caved in. These were all of 100 feet across the top. At this shaft they had four large steam boilers and a link motion engine of the Todd and Rafferty builders of Patterson, M.J. It was a reversible type of a locomotive and was a wonder in those days. They first engineer was William Pool. At that time they introduced the wire rope or cable, but with the old type of engine they used hemp rope 2 inch in diameter, which required a very large drum. It was a common thing to see some of the young and active miners grasp the rope, wind it around one leg and slide to the bottom 125 feet.

The more timid rode the bucket or used the ladders. The head house or hoisting tower was a wonderful. piece of work and was huilt by Joseph Matthews, a fine carpenter (who built the extension to the puddle mill, increasing the furnaces from 16 to 26, and also the Presbyterian Manse).

This shaft had a large verticle engine to operate the pump as in the Welsh mine only much larger. The great master gear wheel, 12 feet in diameter, when running light on the up stroke, the massive teeth made a dingling noise that could be heard in all parts of the town. But it was not hard on the nerves, as it was like music, and a pleasure to hear it.
